TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

VIRGO (Aug 23 - Sept 22)

ZAHARA

Once in a while a star is born to wow and thrill fans in the South African Music industry. Seldom, one arises to take on the fame and status of the late greats Brenda Fassie and Mama Miriam Makheba. When this star rises, nothing can ever stop its shine as it navigates the most difficult terrains of the sometimes notoriously difficult industry.

One such star is none other than Bulelwa "Spinach" Mkutukana, better known as ZAHARA. The current hot, sensational, guitar strumming singer, songwriter and poet was born in November of 1987 and bred in the Phumlani informal settlement outside of East London in the Eastern Cape. Her stage name ZAHARA has its origins in the Arabic and Hebrew languages where it means 'shining flower' and 'shining bright' respectively. This beautiful sweet crisp voiced rare find has been a success long before she hit the lime light. She first sang in her primary school choir at the age of nine and has never looked back. She has performed before Sports Minister Fikile Mbalula during his tenure as the ANC Youth League President at many a private function, singing in backyard events, taverns, small town gatherings and at a few weddings. She is now one of the hottest properties every event organiser wants to hire. The mighty ANC could not resist her charm either, inviting her to perform at the recent Centenary Celebrations held in Mangaung at the Free State Stadium. In only 19 days of her debut album named Loliwe hitting the stores last year, she had already sold more than 100000 copies. Brenda Fassie with her album Memeza, which sold over 500000 units a few weeks after its release, was the only person in the history of South African music to break this record. The amazing team of producers that is credited with discovering this rare talent are Mojalefa Thebe and Robbie Malinga, including TK of TS Records. ZAHARA sings 'Afro-soul' and is inspired by such International artists as Tracy Chapman and the Nigerian singer Asa. She has already attracted collaborations with D.J Sbu and 'The Village Pope' Tsepko Tshola. Late last year she won the coveted Song of The Year at the Metro FM Music Awards at the Mbombela Stadium in Mpumalanga.

Queen of African Soul
